By order entered August 18, 2017, the Court ordered that the delayed application for leave to appeal be held in abeyance pending the production of transcripts and a response from the prosecution to the delayed application and certain issues raised in our order. The Court has received the transcripts and both a response to the delayed application, and a later filed confession of error, the latter of which asserts that defendant is entitled to resentencing before the judge who took defendant's plea and originally sentenced defendant. The Court now REMOVES the case from abeyance, and in lieu of granting the delayed application for leave to appeal, VACATES the December 21, 2016 order and REMANDS this matter for resentencing before Judge Aquilina who accepted defendant's plea and originally sentenced her. See People v Pierce, 158 Mich App 113, 115-116; 404 NW2d 230 (1987).

The Court does not retain jurisdiction.
