The motion for immediate consideration is GRANTED.

The motion to compel presentation of testimony at the pending evidentiary hearing and order the matter to be reviewed by a different judge is DENIED. We note that we are not persuaded that defendant has overcome the heavy presumption of judicial impartiality. People v Jackson, 292 Mich App 583, 598; 808 NW2d 541 (2011). This order is without prejudice to the ability of the case call panel to consider any argument made to it that any aspect of the remand proceedings were unduly limited by the circuit court.
