The Court orders that the motion to remand is DENIED for failure to persuade the Court of the necessity of a remand at this time. Particularly, defendant's claims of ineffective assistance of counsel relate to matters in the existing record. There is no need for a remand merely to explore trial counsel's subjective reasons for the allegedly deficient omissions because counsel's performance for purposes of an ineffective assistance of counsel claim is assessed under an objective standard of reasonableness. People v Armstrong, 490 Mich 281, 289-290; 806 NW2d 676 (2011).
